Mrs. O'Shannessy, widow of the late Mr. Michael O'Shannessy, of Crookwell, died on Sunday at North Sydney at the age of 83.

Catholic Press

19 Aug 1920

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Shannessy, an old and much respected resident of the Crookwell district, up till about ten years ago, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. White, 31 Military-road, Neutral Bay, on the 8th inst. She had been previously ailing with a bronchial attack for about six weeks; but had been up and apparently well up to the morning of her death. Later in the day she complained of being ill, and about 5 o'clock, she passed peacefully away. The late Mrs. O'Shannessy was a native of Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, and came to this country 60 years ago, and settled with her husband at Campbelltown. She was devoted to her religious duties, and spent much time in prayer. Out of a family of nine children, five survive her — Mr. M. O Shannessy (of the Post and Telegraph Department, Sydney) and president of The Catholic Club, North Sydney, James (Inverell) and Patrick (Woollahra), her daughters being Mrs. White and Miss O'Shannessy. Her remains were taken to St. Mary's, Ridge-street, North Sydney, on Monday afternoon, and a Mass celebrated on Tuesday morning. The funeral took place at Randwick Cemetery after Mass. —R.I.P.

STRANGE RAILWAY ACCIDENT MOTHER KILLED, BABY INJURED.

The deputy city coroner held an in question Saturday into the circumstance surrounding the death of a single woman, named Johanna O'Shannessy, 38 years of age, who was run over by a train near North Menangle on Friday morning, and died during the same day in the Sydney hospital which she had been removed. Dr I. Hart, of Sydney Hospital, described the injuries, which included severance of the right leg below the ankle shreds, and great laceration of the right arm and forearm. The woman was in a state of collapse when admitted, and death ensued from injuries received. Dr. John Smith Wilson, of Campbelltown, stated that he met the train at Campbelltown, and on account of Miss O'Shannessy's injuries thought it necessary to accompany her to Sydney. The original intention was to leave her at Liverpool, but there was no bed available, and she was brought to Sydney. Evidence was also given by James Sell (fireman) and John Tildsley (driver) that the woman was some fifty yards in front of the engine when they saw her. While attempting to cross the line the driver said, the woman seemed to stand, and then fell. Had she proceeded on her way she would have cleared the engine. The brakes went at once applied, and the train stopped. She was found under the brake-van, and the child, which she had in her arms, was discovered a little distance away under a milk-van, and only slightly injured. Mary Lynch, residing at North Menangle said that Miss O'Shannessy was her husband's cousin. She came to the place on 8th instant, but had tea, and slept that night at a neighbor's place. On the 9th instant she returned to her house, and had the baby with her. She seemed distressed, and her eyes were red, as if from weeping. She remained there that night, and in the morning complained that she could not sleep. She went subsequently for a walk. Witness's house was off the ground, near the line. Denis Edward Raymond said that on the 10th instant he saw the woman get through the wire fence, and proceed to the embankment of the railway. Evidence was also given by Constable Hartman, of Campbelltown. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, adding that there was no one to blame.

A wedding which united families well known in the northern suburbs was that of Miss Colleen O'Shannessy, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Shannessy, of Cammeray avenue, North Sydney, to Mr. John S. Kearns, eldest son of Mr. J. Kearns, Commissioner of the Rural Bank, and Mrs. Kearns, of Victoria-avenue, Chatswood, which took place on Saturday morning at St. Mary's Cathedral.

The Rev. Dr. Giles celebrated the nuptial mass. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a picturesque gown of white bridal satin, Inlet with lace panels which formed a long train. She wore a veil of beautiful Limerick lace (lent by Mrs. M. S. Stormon) mounted on tulle, and secured with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her sheaf was of frangipani and cream roses. The brides-maids, the Misses Lurline Brown and Molly Kearns, were in Ice-blue tree-bark crepe, relieved with silver lame, and wore blue velvet picture hats with silver flowers. They carried sheaves of roses. Mr. Percy Skehan was best man and Mr. P. Kearns, groomsman. The reception was held at the Pickwick Club, where the bride's mother, wearing black chevron crepe and a black velvet hat and carrying an autumn-tinted posy, received the guests.

Narrow Escape at Crookwell

Crookwell, Saturday.—A lad named James O'Shannessy had a wonderful escape from a shocking death at Cox Brothers' mill yesterday. While engaged in sweeping the floor his clothing caught in portion of the machinery and every article of clothing was torn from his body. The occurrence does not appear to have been witnessed by anyone, and the young fellow was discovered unconscious on the floor near the machinery. He was severely bruised about the body, but sustained no serious injury.

Weddings

STORMON — O'SHANNESSEY

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, 1 September 29, when Mavis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Shannessy, Post Office, Arncliffe, was married to Dr. Philip J. Stormon, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Stormon, of South Coast. The bride, who was led to the altar by her father, presented a dainty picture in her old world dress of white chantilly lace with short tight fitting Satin bodice and long Madonna blue tulle train, fastened from the shoulders, over, which hung a beautiful white lace veil, and, she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and blue forget-me-nots. She was attended by her sister, Miss Colleen O'Shannessy, who wore a pretty two-tone pink taffeta and georgette frock made old world style, with a cape pointed at back and forming a fichu knot in front. A pink crinkled straw hat with streamers tied under the chin completed her costume and she carried a basket of flowers. Little Margaret Gately was the tiny train bearer, wearing pink georgette with frills. Dr. Ted Stormon was best man and the wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father J. J. Rafferty, of Arncliffe. The reception was held later at the Waldorf, where Mrs. O'Shannessy, wearing navy blue. Georgette with hat to match, and carrying a posy of blue delphiniums, received about 70 guests. Mrs. M. Stormon, the bridegroom's mother, wore black georgette with hat to match and carried a posy of pink carnations. The bride's travelling dress was a green and bronze ensemble with hat to match and their future home will be at Chatswood, where Dr. Stormon has commenced practice.

A CROOKWELL WEDDING. A pretty little wedding and one in which much local interest was evident owing to the popularity of the bride and bridegroom was celebrated an Nuptial Mass by Rev. Mgr. Vaughan at St. Mary's R.C. Church, Crookwell, on last Wednesday morning, the 27th inst., when Miss Margaret (Madge) Elizabeth White, second daughter of Mr. Andrew White and the late Mrs. White of Glenerin, was married to Mr. Michael Sylvester Loughnane, eldest son of the late Mr. Patrick Loughnane of Grabben "Gullen. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given away, looked charming and graceful in a handsome gown of white charmouse and lace trimming with wreath of orange blossoms and veil, the latter lent by Mr. W Hallam of Gunning, cousin of the bridegroom. Her bouquet of white chrysanthemums and asparagus fern together with a handsome set of furs was the bridegroom's gift. The chief bridesmaid, Miss Ursula (Donny) white sister of the bride, wore a pretty frock of pale pink georgette with a white tulle hat touched with pink, while the second bridesmaid, Miss Agnes Loughnane, sister of the bridegroom wore dainty frock of White silk with white silk net overdress trimmed fillet lace, with shell pink sails and black tulle hat with pale pink streamers. Their bouquets of white and pink chrysanthemums and Nellie Stewart bangles were gifts from the bridegroom. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a solid leather suitcase. Mr. Bede Loughnane, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, while Mr. Maurice White, cousin of the bride, was groomsman. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party adjourned to Mr. J. Wakely's cafe, where the happy couple received the felicitations of their friends and where a wedding reception breakfast was served, at which Rev. Mgr. Vaughan presided. Later the happy couple took their departure by motor car to Goulburn en route for the South Coast and Sydney, where the honeymoon was being spent, the bride travelling in a navy woolen gabardine costume with champagne hat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Loughnane will reside at Grabben Gullen. The presents were numerous, useful, and costly, including several cheques for substantial amounts.-

STEPHENIE CLAIRE PICKER:
Wedding

Summer Hill' at Bigga was the perfect venue for the marriage of Stephanie Picker and Alex Wilson who were married on January 12 by local marriage celebrant Jan Fenton. Summer Hill is Stephanie's parent's farm where she grew up.

The ceremony was held under a big gum tree on the property and the reception was in a marquee on the front lawn.

Stephanie and Alex were at school together and were good friends from year 7 onwards. It was when they were in year 12 that love and romance blossomed and they have been together ever since!

Alex proposed one day at the beach and although Stephanie had a sneaking suspicion that it might happen she was still shocked but of course very excited.

During their ceremony Stephanie and Alex thanked their parents, Danny and Megan from Bigga and Ian and Debbie from Tarago for teaching them about family, for teaching them the skills to have a happy marriage and for loving and supporting them as they too became husband and wife.

One hundred and forty-five guests helped celebrate this very happy occasion and were witness to Alex and Stephanie's love and commitment to each other.

Stephanie was attended by her sister Anna Picker as maid of honour, bridesmaids Kimberley Hedley, Elle Wilson and Kate Brewer. Flower girls were Georgia, Hannah, Ella and Kara Fielding.

Alex's best man was Tom Keatley and groomsmen were Aaron Granger, Andrew Keatley and Lachlan Croker. Page boys were Luke Fielding and Remy Rees-Picker.

Many thanks to everyone who made this day so special and memorable for Stephanie and Alex.

Thank you to uncle Glen, Aaron Granger and auntie Katie for their beautiful readings on the day.

Thank you to Jan Fenton who was the celebrant, Jo Marshall their wedding co-ordinator, Crookwell Country Bunches for the flowers and David Robertson of 'The Robertson's in Canberra' who was the official photographers for the day.

Alex and Stephanie will honeymoon in South Africa, Mauritius and Dubai and will make their home in Crookwell.

RONALD GANN:
Ronald Gann - a tribute to a local icon
BY TOM SEBO

22 Feb, 2012 08:53 AM

Ronald Barry Gann 1/5/1956 – 15/2/2012

GOULBURN mourned the passing of one of its favourite sons last week, popular local businessman Ronald Gann.

Ronny passed away on Wednesday, February 15, at Calvary Private Hospital and was survived by his wife Helen, children Nicholas and Georgina and mother Evelyn.

The 55-year-old was truly a local icon.

There were few people that didn't know him and everybody who did had nothing but the utmost respect for him. G Store manager Leanne Coveney worked for Ronny for nine years and says she could not have asked for a better boss. "He was more like a friend than a boss," she said.

"We could always do whatever we wanted in the shop. If we needed to duck out for something or if the kids needed something we'd just say, 'We'll be back in 10 minutes', and he'd say that was fine.

"Every morning always started with a coffee and a chat ... I cared about his family and he cared about mine. We had a shop family and that was very unique."

Ronny began his career in retail at the age of just 16, folding socks at Robert Allen's menswear store.

It didn't take long for his employer to see his obvious talent and the young salesman was promoted to a buyer.

He also worked for Ken Giddings and later Bob Rogers, where he became the owner's right hand man.

When Bob retired in 1995, he and his wife purchased the store and soon after changed the name.

Over the last 17 years, Ronny has built a reputation as an ethical businessman whose service was second to none.

At the store, his employees used to joke that they were the workers and he was in charge of public relations. Ronny was a natural born salesman and he always greeted his customers with a friendly smile and a chat.

In fact, it was his service that kept the majority of his customers coming back, "We'll get you looking good” was a common catch cry. “It didn’t matter if you came in to buy a suit or a pair of socks, everybody got the same special service Ron gave,” Leanne said.

“People would come into the shop and you’d ask them what they wanted and they would say, ‘Ron knows what size my son wears’ or ‘what size my husband wears’ and we’d go and ask him and he knew straight away.

He knew his customers. You don’t get that anywhere else... It wasn’t just older people though, even kids would come in after school just to see him.

Ron was the man.

Sometimes he would have four customers waiting and they would wait just to see him.”

Leanne also fondly recalled his sense of humour, which often saw him gallivanting around the store in a blonde wig.

He had a passion for fashion and humanity.

There were few things he loved more than a good old fashioned chin wag and it wasn’t unusual for him to go MIA in the middle of the day, sometimes taking two or three hours to go to the bank because he would stop and talk to too many people.

While Ronny was integral part of the community and a friend to many, he was, foremost, a family man and his wife and children were the most important people in his life.

Ronny and Helen married 24 years ago and always had a loving relationship. Helen says her husband was one of the funniest men she had ever met and fondly remembers his charm and wicked sense of humour.

He often bought her “thoughtful gifts” that would bring a smile to her face - some of the best included an iron and a doormat.

“We shared many jokes and there are too many funny stories,” she said.

“He came home one day wearing his blonde wig and he told me he looked like Bon Jovi and I told him, ‘In your dreams baby, in your dreams’.”

Helen said Ronny was never much of a handyman and that at home it was much the same as his relationship with his employees at the shop – she was the manager and he was the PR man.

His Mercedes and Harley Davidson were his two most prized possessions and spent countless hours keeping them in pristine condition.

“He loved his cars. We never had a screwdriver in the house but we had a garage full of car products,” Helen laughed. Ronny was an extremely supportive father.

His daughter Georgina was a daddy’s girl and followed very much in his footsteps. She worked at the store and could make even the toughest of sales, often selling the master salesman himself.

Helen joked she would bring home more clothes than she sold and that the word “Daddy...” was usually followed by Ronny saying “Oh, alright then”.

Ronny also had a close relationship with his son Nicholas, who always saw him as a mentor.

“He was just the best dad. I couldn’t have asked for a better dad,” Nicholas said.

“He was very kind and caring and always looked after me and Georgina. He would never question to help us and we never wanted for anything. If I was ever struggling with anything he was always the first one I would go to for advice. He was a family man and he always had time for us.”

They were both also diehard St George supporters, as was Ronny’s mother, and the footy was a common talking point. Ronny was a Goulburn boy through and through.

He was a keen sportsman and hockey had always been somewhat of a passion

He first picked up a Hockey stick at age six and never looked back.

He represented NSW in the Under 16s and later the Goulburn veterans at the state championships and the ACT at the Australian Veterans Championship. Ken Briggs coached Ronny as a junior when he played for North Goulburn Hockey Club and said he was always a good player.

“He came from a strong hockey family, his father and uncles had all been good players in their day,” Ken said. “He was a keen and enthusiastic player who achieved a high standard.

He was well respected and made many friends. He will be greatly missed by the entire hockey community.”

Ronny was a big supporter of the sport in both Goulburn and the ACT and took a keen interest in emerging young talents.

About five years ago, Ronny became involved with the Highland Riders Motorcycle Club and after two years of associating with them he was invited to become a member.

Ronny was drawn to the diversity of the group, which consisted of people of just about every walk of life, and the fact that there were no airs and graces with them. Fellow Highland Rider and close friend Jason Perry said Ronny was loved by everybody in the club because of his kindness, honesty and the fact that he was such a genuine bloke.

What you saw was what you got, which often led to amusing situations.

One that sprang to mind happened on a trip to the snowy mountains at the end of last year.

After riding in the pouring rain for hours the group sought refuge at the Adaminaby Pub, wet, cold, disheveled and looking rough.

“So we walk into the pub, wearing all of our bikie clothes and all of the locals were just silent and looking at us, they were all taken back by us, and we got to the bar and I ordered a beer and the next bloke ordered a beer and the next one ordered a beer. And then, in comes Ronny and he looks up at the board and he says ‘I’ll have skinny latte and a sticky date pudding’,” Jason laughed.

“He was always clean, he was always immaculate, he was always well dressed and well spoken and you wouldn't think that would fit in too well with us blokes, being a bunch of bikies, but I think we all took something from him. He brought culture to our club. He didn't change himself to come into our club, he changed us by coming into our club. We used to have bike meetings and he could only ever see the good in everyone."

Jason said he would be greatly missed by all of the blokes at the club.

Ronny's funeral will be held at St Saviour's Cathedral on Friday at 1pm.

Business dream reality.

After moving to Forbes some seven years ago, the Clement family have recently realised a dream – to open their own workwear business. Clemo's Country Clothing opened recently at 50 Rankin Street – stocking everything for the working man and woman.

Lea, Paul, Ashleigh and Bradley Clements moved to Forbes from Crookwell NSW and soon noticed that there was an opportunity to open such a retail business here. They recently saw an opportunity and on March 19 opened Clemo's Country Clothing.

Clema's Country Clothing stock Wrangler and Thomas Cook shirts, jumpers, jackets, jeans, vests, boots, belts and caps for men, women and children.

Also available is Bullrush casual work wear, the Bisley range for men and women and bamboo socks. Catalogues are available for all labels so customers can browse through and Lea will order in what you would like.

Clema's Country Clothing also offer embroidery for workwear and although corporate wear is not in store, it can easily be ordered. Paul works on Saturday morning and Ashleigh on a casual basic while Bradley, who lives in Goulburn, offers moral support.

After opening a month ago, the family is pleased with how the business is going and with the warm welcome from Forbes. "The town has been very supportive, as have family and friends" Lea said.
